VALUE OF LITTLE VIRTUES.

Do not be troubled because you have not great virtues. God made a million spears of grass where he made one tree. The earth is fringed and carpeted, not with forests, but with grasses. Only have enough of the little virtues and common virtues and you need not mourn because you are neither a hero nor a saint.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Miss Kline to be June Bride.

It was to formally announce the engagement and approaching marriage of her young sister, Miss Mildred Kline, to Mr. Charles Ellwood Braden, that Mrs. Seth Ely entertained with a large and handsome luncheon company yesterday afternoon at Hotel Tulsa.

The private dining room, which has been the scene of many brilliant parties during the season just drawing to a close, was chosen as a setting for the affair and effectively decorated in the greenery of palms and ferns with a canopy of green overhanging the one large, round table. Mrs. Ely received her guests informally into the dining room.

The table picture was a beautiful one with sunburst roses, carried out in all the details of appointment. A great cluster of the roses, together with sprays of fragrant magnolias, formed the centerpiece, which was outlined with string smilax and roses scattered over the cloth and table ribbon tied at intervals in lustrous bows. Silver candelabra and individual holders were also used in the scheme of decoration and the subdued light was from the burning tapers. The place cards, hand-decorated in rose and cupid design told in so many words the happy purport of the party, which though none knew all had suspected—that Miss Kline is soon to become a bride. The favors were lovely colonial bouquets of Cecil Bruner roses. Covers were laid for 32 guests from among the matrons and girls of the bride-elect's circle of friends. The Hotel Tulsa orchestra played during the luncheon hours.

Miss Kline, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Morris Kline of Parkersburg, W. Va., is one of the younger girls of society and while she is possessed of all the accomplishments which make one a favorite in social circles, her chief charm lies in her lovable disposition and character through which she has become fondly known to her family and friends as "Sweet Kline." She received her schooling in Tarrytown on the Hudson and at Mrs. Sample's in New York. Mr. Braden is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn T. Braden of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Tulsa and is associated with his father in the management of the latter's oil and gas interests.

The marriage of Miss Kline and Mr. Braden is to be an event of June, the date as yet to be named, and will be celebrated at Trinity Episcopal church.

The bride-elect was attractively dressed for her announcement party in a gown of orchid taffeta embroidered in silver, with a white hat and corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley were worn.

Private School Play June 7.

Wednesday, June 7, has been set as the date of the annual play of the private school and kindergarten of Miss Elliott and Miss Brock, which is this season to be a presentation of "Sing a Song of Sixpence," an operetta of Mother Goose characters. The fairy play will be given at the Grand theater by a large cast of children from all departments of the school and will be on an even more elaborate scale than last year's undertaking, "The Sleeping Princess."

"The Queen of Hearts," "Old King Cole," "Miss Muffet," "The Knave of Hearts," "Margery Daw," "Jack and Jill," "Humpty Dumpty" and all our childhood friends will be presented by children of Tulsa's representative families and the play will be an even larger and more elaborate production than was last year's undertaking.

NOBLES READY TO STAGE PILGRIMAGE

Akdar Temple Will Journey to Enid May 25; Arranging Already.

The Enid nobles are calling. And it's there that I shall be. With our dear old Akdar Shriners. Where there's sure some fun for me.

That is the air the befezzed members of the tribe of Akdar are chanting as they patiently await the arrival of Thursday, May 25, when they will skip aboard a special all-steel caravan on the Frisco and lie themselves to Enid for the first big pilgrimage of the year. More than three hundred will entrain for the big festival of joy, returning to Tulsa the following morning.

Some of the big features that have been announced for the pilgrimage are the festival of the pilgrims, union of derbies, illuminated monologues, recitation of thirty sections, gorgeous processions and legendary Zikers.

The following notice was flashed from the oasis of Akdar, serving notice to all tribesmen to gird up their loins and adopt preparedness measures:

"A grand ceremonial session will be held, the it has come to our ears that in the portion of the desert most remote and far removed from our temple, a large number of inquisitive, unregenerate sons of Oklahoma western plains crave admission, clamoring also for renovation, purification and understanding. Allah has been gracious to the brethren of Garfield county, for their herds wax fat, their valleys give forth a plentiful supply of milk and honey and their coffers are filled to overflowing."

Recorder Harry Welliver of Akdar is now in Enid making preparations for the assembling of the Tulsa tribe. An elaborate program will feature the occasion and a large class of candidates will trip over the burning sands.
